DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of Group I in the reply filed on 4/28/2006 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).
2. Applicant's election of Species 1.1 in the reply filed on 8/15/2006 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).
3. Claims 3 and 8-27 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected Group and/or Species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

Information Disclosure Statement

4. The lined out citation on the IDS of 3/29/2004 was not considered because a copy of the non-patent literature publication was not found in the application file.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3736

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kritzman et al. (US 6,921,647). Kritzman discloses a method of detecting the premature rupture of amniotic membrane comprising testing vaginal fluid for pH and determining a result as an irreversible or stable color change (column 12, lines 23-24) in a test medium. Note that the color change is resistant to further change due to long use or wetting and drying cycles (column 3, lines 58-59).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 1, 2 and 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smith et al. (US 6,149,590) in view of Cheng and Stevens (1998). Smith discloses a method (abstract) of detecting the premature rupture of amniotic membrane comprising testing vaginal fluid for pH and determining a result as a color change in a test medium. Although Smith discloses that a variety of pH indicators could be used (column 6, lines 59-60), Smith does not expressly disclose that the color change is irreversible or the use of liposomes. Cheng teaches that glutamic acid derivatized 10,12-pentacosadiynoic acid lipids (GLU-PDA; 2 in figure 1) are known in the art and are known to be useful in bio-sensing (abstract and first paragraph). GLU-PDA forms liposomes that undergo an irreversible hyperchromic spectral shift. Figure 2 shows liposomes that undergo a spectral shift at a pH of at least 7. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to have used the liposomes taught by Cheng in the method of Smith because it is well-known and routine within the art to substitute known pH indicators and because Smith discloses that various pH indicators can be used.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US 2001/0025140 and US 2001/0053876 discloses a system for identifying premature rupture of membrane during pregnancy. US 6,982,360 discloses a pantyliner for pregnant women. US 7,049,152 discloses a composition that undergoes pH-induced chromatic transition and morphological transformation.
